

Three things source many marital breakdowns in the country

Moshi. The situation has been different the divorce application for couples is increasing in different parts of the country.

Some of the causes of the situation indicated that a lack of trust between the couple, violence and harsh living conditions.

Besides the increase in marriages that are in the queue to be broken, some couples' only endure in their homes; there is no peace among them. "You see people in front of the community are husband and wife, but the home fires burning. They live in the same house but different rooms in order to raise only children, "said a psychologist.

He said marriage has been a major challenge in the era of globalization that has begun to change Tanzanian culture.

Relations and Marketing Manager of the Agency for Registration, Insolvency and Trusteeship Agency (Rita), Josephat Obeng said in 2018, 3,814 divorces were registered across the country, but said the number could be larger.

"You know the procedure is that when they are in court and divorce is given, the law requires that the decision be made to Rita to be registered and then it is counted as divorce," said Kimaro

The problem is that when divorce is given in the community people already see it is the end, but the law request must be brought here to register and delete the marriage certificate. ".

Kimaro said Rita is negotiating with the Court by using the electronic system that when divorce is appears they can view it. Since many get the judgment of divorce they do not return to Rita, it is possible that this number of 3,814 divorces that we registered in 2018 was small.

About Kilimanjaro Region, Deputy Registrar of the High Court of Moshi, Frank Mahimbali said in 2018 they were released with 104 counseling divorce, with divorce granted to 83.

A large percentage of those who are applying for divorce are women and among the reasons it is a decline in marital commitment, but there is also a matter of difficulty in life” he said, “you find that when a woman gets married, a man has a good financial situation before if that condition changed, the woman is running to pray divorce because the life he expected has changed.

“But there is also a matter of violence. There are men who have been abusing their wives and when they (women) are unable to tolerate, they come to ask for divorce.

Statement of religious leaders

Retired bishop of the Church of the Assemblies Of God (TAG), Glorious Shoo said that although the problem of divorce, also exists of divorce or live together with no integration.

There are people who have abandoned without a divorce, this it is very bad. There are other people who live together but the truth is that they have left it because they have no cooperation in anything. This is another problem in marriage now.

Bakwata Secretary, Kilimanjaro Region, Awadh Lema also mentioned the decline of values and globalization that are a major source of divorce.

These so-called FILMS have contributed too many marital breakdowns. There are young people who are already married to each other and they disagree with something that is dangerous in marriage.

The government will change the system of education management

Minister of Education, Professor Joyce Ndalichako said the government changed the education system controllers to abandon the procedure followed now.

Karume assassination

The name of the first President of Zanzibar, Amani Abeid Karume Elder continues remembered for how he could build the economy of this island, including the building housing the poorest countries and to become the first African television station with color.

Elder Karume praised for being Zanzibar as Europeans because he was once a sailor and traveling in the European countries, which made him want the Zanzibaris to get there.

Dispite of his assassination on April 7, 1972, his name has continued to be high in success with the success of the Sultan regime for the 1964 Revolution.

Karume, who was the leader of the Afro Shiraz (ASP) party, its administration built, Unguja and Pemba, road infrastructure, clean water systems and sewerage, hospitals, health centers, schools and communications, for example the construction of a television station which was first in Africa

Visible luxury buildings today in the Michenzani, Unguja and in various cities and suburbs of Unguja and Pemba are the result of his leadership and vision of Zanzibar he wanted to build.

Also, he used national resources to benefit the people, a significant contribution from cloves, which more than 90 percent of its production depend on Pemba Island.

Until his assassination Zanzibar was one of the few countries in the union, which had a lot of foreign currency and growing economy and improving.

Forgetting his name may take a lot of time and years to come as the kind of leadership is mentioned is the most important symbol of sub-Saharan Africa leaving Libya in northern Africa during Colonel Muammar Gaddafi.
