

History of Islam in Tanzania after Independence

Nyerere's order to arrest mufti Hassan bin Amir

This is part of the manuscript of the book "Mwalimu Julius K. Nyerere, the Catholic Church and Islam: Empire and the problem of religiosity in Tanzania". The book is written by the famous historian of Tanganyika Mr. MOHAMMED SAID

When TANU was founded, Sheikh Hassan bin Amir was offering TANU cards to the Muslims in mosque while he was in teaching

Some of the TANU's most influential members, Sheikh Hassan bin Amir brought them into TANU. Sheikh Mussa Rehani was given his card in Kigoma mosque. When Nyerere came TAA (political part before TANU and Independence) Dar es Salaam in 1953, he met Sheikh Hassan bin Amir who was involved in politics.

After independence Sheikh Hassan bin Amir resigned from politics, as he said, to serve the Muslims well.

Nyerere knew that it would not be easy for him to point Sheikh Hassan bin Amir to detention as he did to other Muslims.

Sheikh Hassan bin Amir was the Mufti of Tanganyika and Zanzibar and for this he had a great status in the Muslim community.

It was also not easy for anyone to break up Sheikh Hassan bin Amir and take the lead of the Muslims.

Manuscript of the book "Mwalimu Julius K. Nyerere, the Catholic Church and Islam: Empire and the problem of religiosity in Tanzania", is written by the famous historian of Tanganyika Mr. MOHAMMED SAID

Article from Mwananchi news letter

