

MAKKA TRAVELLINGS IN THE LITERATURE AND NASER KHOSROV'S "SAFARNAMA" (BOOK OF TRAVEL) WORK

Nasir Khosrov is one of the prominent representative of Iran (Persia) literature. His traveling to Mecca city continued seven years. In his prose work "Safarnama" (Book of travel) he was widely described his journey. From the beginning of the XIX century the work was begun to learn in Europe countries and was translated into English, French and Russian languages. In the 80th years of the XIX century the work was published in Paris in French east study Shefer's translation. During the translation period Shefer has done some little mistakes as he doesn't know the Persian language enough. Then in 1933 the work was published in Moscow in Russian language in Y.Bertels's translation. In 1982 the work was published in Baki in Tahir Maharramov's translation.

As pressing from the reaction, palace environment in 551th year (1156/57) also Khagani Shirvani goes to pilgrimage of Mecca, Iraq, Arabia peninsula. He was in Mecca on the 10th of Zilhijja in 551. Khagani has seen the renovations, cities, villages, hamlets. When the prominent poet was in Mecca the famous men met him with great respect. Khagani's "Dideand" – "Gormushlar" ("They have seen") eulogy written in Kaba is one of the best works of him. In this eulogy the poet's philosophical thoughts about Mecca was reflected and this have been grandiose as holy place of the Islam world of the land.

Key words: Naser Khosrov, traveling, Mecca, Safarnama (Book of travel), Khagani Shirvani, eulogy.