

PIU SARKAR

Born: 1976, Kolkata, India

Artist Introduction:

Piu Sarkar's experiments are meaningful. Here is work that does not serve solely as a mean of expressing the painter's admiration of nature. Instead, she feels strongly that painting has a task of its own to accomplish in the service of imaginative life. She has developed a style which is in keeping with the thirst of mankind's innermost needs. Here, there is a greater and starker simplicity, which is expressive natural seeming and free from ornamental impedimenta of any kind. In this way the socio-cultural and cosmic function of the painting is extended. Instead of relying on the fortuitous, the painting is given content by artistic values belonging to all times. Well, it is in some such way a good artist's work.

Keshav Malik.

Has held several solo exhibitions and participated in many group exhibitions with galleries in U.A.E., Singapore. In India has participated in "Harmony Art Show" by Reliance Group, Drawing and Painting for AIFACS, Lalit Kala Academy etc. Paintings are in collection with many national houses e.g. Onida, R.P.G, Hyatt regency etc. and also in collection of Sushmita Sen, Russi Mody and many national/international art patrons. Last solo exhibition "Unconsciously conscious" was in Hirji Jehangir Gallery.

PIU SARKAR, a Kolkata based artist has fast captured Mumbai through her three solo exhibitions and numerous group exhibitions truly deserves to be called a thinking artist. Proof evident in her latest series of paintings called Matters of mind. Through her paintings Piu Sarkar questions whether dreams lead us or we lead ourselves to our dreams. – BOMBAY TIMES.TIMES OF INDIA.2008.

Popular Kolkata based painter Piu Sarkar shows us how Albert Einstein would have painted had he been an artist-DNA.MUMBAI.2010.

The depth and intensity of her strokes belie her age. Her creations on "Stree shakti" are a story of her journey as women - AFTERNOON.MUMBAI.2007.
