The Project to Support the Translation and Publication of Iranian Works into other Languages

Introduction

Cultural diplomacy has proved to be an appropriate means of introducing the culture and thoughts of a nation to other nations and states of the world and its effective results depend on cultural industries, to a large extent. One of the most important pillars of the implementation of cultural policy has proved to be the translation of written works into other languages.

Keeping in view the significant role of the medium of translation in cultural relations among nations, it may be confidently said that one of the necessities of scientific and cultural activities is extending appropriate support to this medium.

The project to extend support to the translation of Iranian works to other languages, popularly known as "Translation of Persian or TOP" is the starting point in creating constructive upheaval in the publication of Iranian works with the view to expanding cultural relations with the world and introducing Iranian thought to other nations. The Center for Organizing Translation and Publication of Islamic Teachings and Human Sciences, which has been vested with the responsibility of organizing translation and publication of Iranian works at the international level, looks forward to spreading the publication of Iranian books in the world through the cooperation and efforts of active international cultural organizations and centers.

Aim and Objective of the Project

The TOP project has been designed to support the translation and publication of Iranian works in other languages by providing a part of the expenses involved in the publication of such books in order to encourage foreign publishers to participate in this area.

Moreover, with the view to introducing the Iranian culture and thought through the efforts of domestic publishers the Center for Organizing Translation and Publication is also working on a project to extend support to such publishers as well.

The Extent and Conditions of Support

The extent of support for the translation and publication of Iranian works by the publishers active outside Iran is €3000 for each book. In this regard the following conditions should be kept in view:

1. The cultural and diplomatic offices of the Islamic Republic of Iran abroad shall represent the Center for Organizing Translation and Publication and all Iranian and foreign publishers that intend to translate and publish an Iranian book in another language are entitled to receive this financial support.
2. Books that are intended to be published in the form of e-book will be entitled to 60 percent of the cost of translation to a maximum of €2000, provided they are published in acclaimed book sites. In this case the digital file of the book is to be delivered to the Center for Organizing Translation and Publication as the executor of the project.

3. In cases in which there are some ambiguities regarding the declared expenses by the publisher the matter shall be referred to the cultural or diplomatic offices of the Islam Republic of Iran for verification.

Mode of Payment

A certain percentage of the financial support shall be paid to the publisher after the respective contract has been signed and approved by the cultural or diplomatic offices of the Islam Republic of Iran and the remaining balance will be settled after the publication and presentation of the book (on the basis of the determined regulations). All payments are done through the offices of the Islamic Republic of Iran abroad. In certain cases, the financial support can be done in the form of pre-purchase of certain number of the book to be published.
